Mr. Wise, who had been in one of the cloak-rooms, came in and asked that the words be taken down.

The Speaker said the proper time for that request had passed.

Mr. Wise-I waive all points, and serve the privilege of a personal explana-tion hereafter.

Mr. Lowry then proceeded with his afgument. In the course of his remarks he referred to Thomas Hendricks. Perhaps some of his Republican friends had heard of that gentleman as having been a suc-cessful candidate for Vice-President in Mr. Reed disclaimed any knowledge of the gentleman in that connection.

Mr. Lowry retorted in intimating that Hendricks might be heard of as elected to Hendricks might be heard of as elected to the same office in 1884, in connection with the real heart of the Democratic party, Samuel J. Tilden. Mr. Hiscock suggested that this discus-sion should be carried on in cipher, which suggestion was received with sundry ejaculations of "tathood" from the Demo-
